- Additional primary sources include analysis questions that help students strengthen geographic-, economic-, and civic-reasoning, as well as consider multiple perspectives.
- Direct connections to today engage students and build 21st century skills.
- The Report Your Findings section is a powerful tool to synthesize their learning as it circles back to answering the Essential Question.
- Each chapter offers a citizenship oriented activity for students to make real-world connections.

CHAPTER 18

The Reconstruction Era

ESSENTIAL QUESTION

How do new ideas change the way people live?

Think about how this question would relate to people emerging from a civil war.

TALK ABOUT IT
Discuss with a partner what type of information you would need in order to understand the changes brought by new ideas after the Civil War. How did the changes affect the way ordinary people lived their lives?

DIRECTIONS: Now write down three additional questions that will help you explain how new ideas emerged during Reconstruction and changed the way Americans lived their lives. For example, you might ask "What were some new ideas that people were forced to deal with?"

CHAPTER 18 • LESSON 1

ESSENTIAL QUESTION

How do new ideas change the way people live?

1 DETERMINING MEANING After reading the introduction, what might the "star" represent in section 2 of the poem? What clues might indicate this?

VOCABULARY
truly group of three perennial yearly musk darkness, given jackets: pickets for a picket fence
recesses inner areas
though a bird with a beautiful song

crane: archaic spelling of crane
a light, thin wrinkled fabric
black bands of which were worn as a token of mourning
flowless: lurch
jabbed: formed or draped in loops
sombre: sad, serious
dirge: a funeral song

"When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloom'd"

DIRECTIONS: Use the excerpt from the poem to answer the questions.

EXPLORE THE CONTEXT: Walt Whitman (1819–1892) was an American poet often referred to as "the father of free verse." In most of his poetry he broke with traditional poetic structures of rhyme and meter and wrote in longer, fluid sentences. This new idea about how to express oneself poetically changed poetry forever. In the following poem, Whitman is writing about witnessing the funeral train of President Abraham Lincoln carrying his body from Washington, D.C., to Springfield, Illinois. This train, draped in black fabric, stopped at cities along the way, where citizens gathered to pay tribute to their fallen president.

PRIMARY SOURCE POEM

441
When lilacs last in the dooryard bloom'd,
And the great star early droop'd in the western sky in the night,
I mourn'd, and yet shall mourn with ever-returning spring.
Ever-returning spring, trinity sure to me you bring,
Lilac blooming perennial and drooping star in the west,
And thought of him I love.

2
O powerful western fallen star!
O shades of night—O moody, tearful night!
O great star disappear'd—O the black murk that hides the star!
O cruel hands that hold me powerless—O helpless soul of me!
O harsh surrounding cloud that will not free my soul.

3
In the dooryard fronting an old farm-house near the white-wash'd palings,
Stands the lilac-bush tall-growing with heart-shaped
leaves of rich green,
With many a pointed blossom rising delicate,
with the perfume strong I love,
With every leaf a miracle—and from this bush in the dooryard,
With delicate-color'd blossoms and heart-shaped leaves of rich green,
A sprig with its flower I break.

continued

4
In the swamp in secluded recesses,
A shy and hidden bird is warbling a song.
Solitary the thrush,
The hermit withdrawn to himself, avoiding the settlements,
Sings by himself a song.
Song of the bleeding throat,
Death's outlet song of life, (for well dear brother I know,
If thou wast not granted to sing thou would'st surely die.)

5
...

6
Coffin that passes through lanes and streets,
Through day and night with the great cloud darkening the land,
With the pomp of the kiosk'd flags with the cities draped in black,
With the show of the States themselves as of rape-well'd women standing,
With processions long and winding and the flambeaus of the night,
With the countless torches lit, with the silent sea of faces and the unbared heads,
With the waiting depot, the arriving coffin,
and the sombre faces,
With dirges through the night, with the thousand voices rising strong and solemn,
With all the mournful voices of the dirges pour'd around the coffin,
The dim-lit churches and the shuddering
organs—where amid these you journey,
With the tolling tolling bells' perpetual clang,
Here, coffin that slowly passes,
I give you my sprig of lilac. . . .

—Walt Whitman, from "When Lilacs Last in the Dooryard Bloom'd," 1865

2 DRAWING CONCLUSIONS What conclusions can you draw in Section 4 about how the speaker feels toward the solitary thrush?

3 MAKE CONNECTIONS In what ways is Whitman's new style of poetry well suited for a poem about grief?

Chapter 18 443

CHAPTER 18 • LESSON 4

ESSENTIAL QUESTION

How do new ideas change the way people live?

Buffalo Soldier

DIRECTIONS: Use the photograph to answer the following questions.

EXPLORE THE CONTEXT: "Buffalo soldiers" was the name Native Americans gave to the African American soldiers of the U.S. 10th Cavalry. Eventually, all African American regiments were known as Buffalo Soldiers. The Buffalo Soldier regiments were created in 1866 and served in many capacities. Some fought in the Indian Wars, and some were responsible for protecting travelers in stagecoaches and on trains. Others helped build roads and military installations.

CHAPTER 18 • LESSON 4

1 DESCRIBING What is your first impression of this photograph?

2 DRAWING CONCLUSIONS What conclusions might you draw about this man from the expression on his face, his clothing, and his body language?

3 HISTORY Looking back at this lesson in your textbook, what aspects of this photograph confirm what the text says about the Buffalo Soldiers?

4 MAKING CONNECTIONS How is becoming a Buffalo Soldier evidence of how new ideas change the way people live?

Chapter 18 461

CITIZENSHIP

TAKING ACTION

The Constitution is based on the principle of popular sovereignty. As the text says, "Exercising the right to vote is probably the most important responsibility of a citizen," but U.S. citizens do not get to vote directly on either laws or Constitutional amendments; these are both done through their elected representatives at the local, state, and national levels. Despite this, citizen engagement can and does have an impact on the lawmaking and Constitutional amendment process. Have students find out about a proposed Constitutional amendment, or devise their own proposal for a new amendment, and instruct them to devise a plan for citizens to take action to get that amendment passed by Congress and the states.

A Narrative of Social History Through Multiple Perspectives and Interpretations

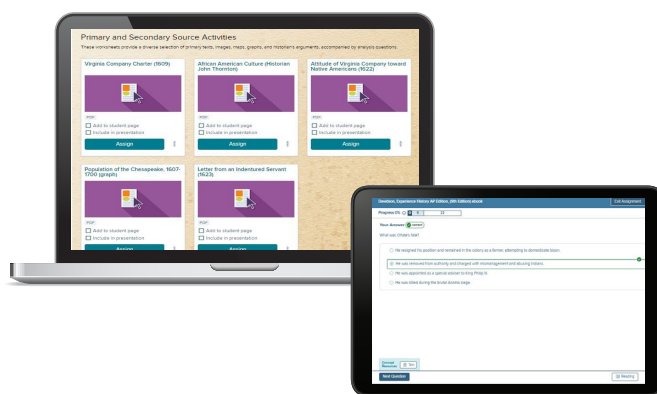

The first AP adaptation of the best-selling college text now in its 9th edition, this narrative is told from multiple perspectives and highlights how diverse actors have been at the center of US history. Students are lead to a richer engagement with and a deeper understanding of how history is created. Focusing on the lives and actions of ordinary Americans helps students to understand that no event is inevitable, and that the actions of the people create historical moments. Students see themselves as stakeholders in an ongoing historical narrative, rather than passive recipients of a historical legacy that has little to do with their individual lives.

A First-of-its-Kind for Today's AP Classroom with:

- Full alignment to the College Board framework for AP US History.
- Complete coverage of key concepts, disciplinary practices, and reasoning skills.
- A wealth of AP practice, focused review, and document-based questions integrated throughout.
- Critical Thinking features that focus on primary and secondary sources from different eras specifically developed with AP exam rubrics in mind.
- After the Fact, which visually flags key text and images to support the effective use of evidence in constructing a historical argument.
- A printed Teacher Manual.

Dynamic Digital Resources

A wealth of digital AP resources include primary source analysis documents and activities, historical argumentation exercises, visual aids and videos, and customizable AP assignments and assessments. Content is organized at the chapter level.
